A party of soldiers in Nashville indulged in a riot on Christmas night and were set upon by a party of police, who answered with shot and bayonet. A riot occurred when one soldier was killed and another severely wounded. Great excitement existed over the affair, and squads of soldiers were sent to the scene, and the rioters were driven off.

The American Colony at Cordova, Mexico.—The New Orleans Picayune learns from a gentleman who left Cordova on the 6th instant that only General Price, of Missouri, and Governor Harris, of Tennessee, are now left there. They have erected a house, but it is scarcely comfortable, and their families reside in the city. Governor Harris is about sending his family, six in number, to Tennessee, to have his children educated. General Shelby is at Vera Cruz, engaged in the colonization of Texas. General Stevens is still Superintendent of the Vera Cruz Railroad, but the travel and business on it are small. All the Confederates in Mexico are in excellent health, but their prospects were poor. Mr. Malcom, of Kentucky, returned home by the last steamer.

Views of the President.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Representative Eggleston, of Ohio, had a long interview with the President to-day. He spent more than an hour in conversation with him on general matters, reconstruction among the rest. After talking of the results of the late elections, Mr. Eggleston asked the President if he did not think it would have been better for him to have succeeded the popular verdict in October and November, and not to have pressed his policy in the late Session.

The President replied to this that he did not think he had shown a further opposition to the popular verdict than merely to express his opinions to Congress on what he thought would be the result of the late election of the country. He thought the Radical party had made a great mistake in spending so much time as they did last session before announcing upon what terms they would agree to admit the Southern States, and what great damage to the public welfare had been the result of this delay; and now that Congress had passed the Amendment, and it was about to become part of the Constitution, he could see no guarantee that the Southern States would be admitted, even after the ratification had been fully accomplished.

Mr. Eggleston replied to this that there was an implied guarantee in the speedy admission of Tennessee after the Legislature had ratified the Amendment, and that he thought the party with which he acted would be nearly a unit on the admission of others of the late Rebel States as soon as they had complied with the conditions exacted from Tennessee.

The President said he hoped this would prove to be true, but he feared there would be strong opposition to such a policy from the extreme Radicals.

Mr. Eggleston said he felt little doubt on the subject. There might be some opposition from Sumner and Stevens, but it was a good characteristic of Stevens that if he could get what he wanted, he would take the best he could get.

"Yes," said the President, "that's true of Stevens, and I always liked him for a practical man, but he seems to me to be working in the wrong direction." The President repeated the hope that the South would be admitted to representation on the adoption of the Amendment. It was useless, now he said, to discuss the propriety or impropriety of the conditions embraced in that measure. It had been agreed upon, and all he could now ask was the guarantee that reconstruction upon that basis should be faithfully kept by the party that had offered it. He expressed regret and surprise that so few members of Congress had called upon him since the opening of the session.

Mr. Eggleston replied that he did not think members of Congress should carry their antagonism so far as that. He believed in fighting out old political battles before the people, and thought that opposition to the views of the President ought not to deter members from conferring with the Executive or consulting on business matters.

The President concurred in this view exactly. He would like to have men of all political complexions to call on him and tell him what they wanted. No harm could possibly come of such an interchange of views, and a great deal of good might come of it, and now that the quarrel had been settled, as most people thought, there was certainly no reason why Senators and Representatives should redoubtfully so avoid him.

The conversation was concluded by Mr. Eggleston inquiring what about the Mexican question. The President replied that it didn't look so favorably as he had hoped to have it, but still he thought all had gone well.

Gen. Scott, Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau for the Department of South Carolina, in a correspondence between himself and Gov. Orr, of that State exposes the way in which Mr. Orr and his supporters attempt to manufacture opinion against the freedmen. The Governor informed Gen. Scott that the freedmen at a place named Kingstree had formed military organizations there, and requested that an officer and a file of men be sent to suppress them, volunteering to co-operate, with his State militia we suppose, in maintaining friendly relations between the two races. Gen. Scott desired some of his officers to inquire into the affair, and upon a full investigation they reported that no military organization of freedmen existed in that district, nor was there any disposition on their part to form one. They had quite a lot to discuss the labor question and the subject of emigrating to Florida, and South Carolina planters in that vicinity having combined to coerce the freedmen to work the coming year at from $6 to $8 per month to which they objected. Gen. Scott says the feeling of the whites about Kingstree is so antagonistic to the Freedmen's Bureau that he had to station a garrison there for the preservation of good order and the protection of his officers.

A Washington despatch now says that "it is stated confidently by those familiar with the plans and purposes of the Government, that nothing definite was expected from Lieutenant General Sherman and Minister Campbell's mission to Mexico, and their failure to accomplish anything has not occasioned any surprise or disappointment in the Executive Department." The statement is also made "that no fixed policy in detail in regard to Mexican affairs has been adopted," beyond the assertion of the Monroe Doctrine.

Mr. Eggleston, of Ohio, had a long interview with the President the other day, and the substance of their conversation is published in the Cincinnati Commercial. Unfortunately experience has proved that Mr. Johnson's professions in conversation with Republican members of Congress cannot be depended upon, indeed are always contradicted by his acts. He now professes to respect the people's verdict in favor of the Constitutional Amendment, yet the whole influence of his Administration has been and still is used to prevent the Southern States from ratifying it.

Letters from Richmond, Virginia, say that the Legislature is nearly united against the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment, and under no circumstances will the people favor its acceptance by them.

A Despatch of Secretary Seward's not Received in France.

The MONITOR of this morning says that the French Government has never received the despatch of Secretary Seward, dated on the 23d of November, addressed to United States Minister Bielow in Paris, and published with the official correspondence just sent in by the President to Congress, and in which Mr. Seward, speaking of Napoleon's new amendment for the removal of the French troops from Mexico in the spring of 1867, says: "But the Emperor's decision to modify the existing arrangement without any understanding with the United States, so as to leave the whole French army in Mexico for the present, instead of withdrawing our detachment in November current, as promised, is now found in every way inconvenient and exceptionable. We cannot acquiesce, first, because the term 'next spring,' as appointed for the entire evacuation, is indefinite and vague; second, because we have no authority for staying to Congress, and to the American people, that we have now a better guarantee for the withdrawal of the whole expeditionary force in the spring than we have heretofore had for the withdrawal of a part in November."

PARIS, DECEMBER 24.—The Emperor Napoleon acceded an audience yesterday to the Hon. Mr. Bielow, ex Minister of the United States, who had the honor of presenting to his Majesty, Major General John A. Dix, his successor in the representation of the American Government, near the Court of the Tuileries.

General Dix, on presenting his credentials to the Emperor, made a few remarks, in the course of which he referred to the standing ancient international amity which existed between the people and the Government of France and the people and Executive of the United States, as the many historical reminiscences which tend to perpetuate the friendship existing between them. The General expressed, in the name of the United States Government, his sincere wish that the good understanding at present existing between the two countries would become perpetual.

The Emperor Napoleon replied, thanking General Dix for the agreeable manner in which he had opened his mission to the French Court. His Majesty said: "The historical reminiscences to which you allude as having existed from only date between France and the United States constitute a sure guarantee that no misunderstanding will disturb the friendly relations which prevail between the two countries. The continuation of a loyal and sincere understanding between the Governments will be a great advantage to the industry and commerce of both countries, the inhabitants of which already astonish the other portions of the world by the marvels of their enterprise. Such an understanding will do much to ensure and guarantee popular progress and the march of civilization."

Your presence in Paris, sir, cannot but contribute to this happy result by upholding in your official character these good relations, to which I attach the highest value.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune makes the following important statement relative to the President's Mexican policy:

"It appears that the French Emperor sent a very short and decisive telegram to Count Montheville immediately after the receipt of Mr. Seward's $5,000 despatch, protesting against the evident attempt of Mr. Seward to force more hasty action in withdrawing his troops. It was nearly in these words: 'If the United States insists upon forcing matters in the withdrawal of our troops, France can but consult her honor in this connection.' There is the best authority for the statement that the project of engaging in a foreign war as a means of saving the Administration, was discussed at length in the Cabinet meeting about the time Mr. Seward sent his long despatch."

The assertion of the Paris Moniteur that the French Government has never received the despatch of Secretary Seward, dated the 22d of November, addressed to Minister Bielow, and published in the official correspondence recently sent by the President to Congress, receives a semi-official contradiction from Washington, and it is stated a reply from Napoleon to Mr. Seward's despatch, referred to, was received by the Government on the 5th of December, which assured the Government of the good faith of the Emperor. In this despatch Napoleon specified the time when the French army would be removed from Mexico, and expressed his satisfaction with the Sherman Campbell mission, and proposed to co-operate in establishing the restoration of the Republican Government, but he thinks it will develop upon the United States to maintain the Government thus created. The Moniteur also suggests that an election in Mexico be brought about by the joint influence of the United States and the French Government.

Advices from Havana, received at New York, report a financial panic prevailing among the Cubans. All the banks except the Government bank have suspended specie payments, and the Captain General has issued a decree authorizing, under certain limitations, a suspension of specie payments by that institution.

SOUTHERN FIDELITY.—The Richmond Times publishes an account of the burning of the New Iron-works under the caption "Yankee iron-works destroyed by fire." The Times adds to the account the following comment:

The Southern people will be able to bear this disaster the more philosophically when they reflect on the fact that the iron-works in question was a very prominent actor in the event of the war on the Southern coast.

Governor Patton, of Alabama, recently addressed a mass meeting in Lauderdale county, in that State. On that occasion he strongly urged the propriety of accepting the Constitutional Amendment. Senator Parsons, on the other hand, advises the people of the State to stand firmly by President Johnson and reject the Amendment.

Two Sunday school teachers fought in a church in Chicago recently, and were fined $5 for it next day.

The property of Jacob Sheffman, deceased, in Crensville, was sold by the Administrator, Jones B. Orr, on Tuesday, to Daniel Linnab—price $1,311.

George Hiebenthal has sold his property in Franklin township, to Joseph L. Wible—22 acres for $825.

Appointments of Gov. Geary.

The Hon. Benjamin Harris Brewster, of Philadelphia, has been appointed Attorney General by Governor Geary.

Mr. Brewster is well and favorably known as one of the best lawyers in the States, and his appointment will give satisfaction to all who desire the affairs of that office administered impartially and honestly.

His high character and legal ability are appreciated by all the members of the Philadelphia Bar, as well as by the legal profession of the State, and we congratulate Gov. Geary upon the admirable selection he has made in the appointment of his legal adviser.

COL. FRANK JORDAN has been appointed Secretary of State. Mr. Jordan resides in Bedford county, which district he represented in the Senate a number of years since. At the breaking out of the rebellion he was appointed paymaster in the army by General Cameron, then Secretary of War, the duties of which he discharged faithfully to the Government and the soldier. After the close of the war he resigned that position, and during the late campaign was the efficient Chairman of the State Central Committee. The selection of Col. Jordan and Mr. Brewster is a sure guarantee that Gov. Geary is determined to surround himself by an honest and faithful Cabinet.—HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH.

The Holidays.

E. H. Minnigh & Bro., in Chambersburg street, opposite the College Church, have laid in a large stock of goods intended for the Holidays, and invite the attention of the public thereto. It embraces, of course all sorts of confections, fruits, nuts, &c., with an almost endless variety of toys. They have something to please the thousand different tastes of the people, with an assortment which they flatter themselves will be attractive to grown up folks. Give them a call. Their goods cannot but give satisfaction, whilst their prices are much lower than last year, and must be equally satisfactory.

Teachers desiring to make presents to their schools, as well as the trade, will be accommodated at the lowest possible figures.

Honorable Mention.

Major General Sheridan, commanding the Department of the West, announces the following names of persons deserving of honorable mention for faithful and meritorious services rendered in the Sadwick United States General Hospital, near New Orleans, as nurses and attendants during the privations of the cholera there, viz: Robert Tucker, citizen employee; Stephen Van Norman, private; Company B, 6th United States Cavalry; George Cahill, Hospital Seward, and Charles Ayre, citizen employee.

The Richmond papers state that the late order issued by Major General J. M. Schofield, directing the Freedmen's Bureau officers throughout the State of Virginia to take immediate possession of all horses and mules which belong to the United States, found in the possession of private citizens, has been revoked. The order revoking it annulling any action which may have already been taken, and requires that all animals taken by General Schofield's agents shall be restored to the parties who held them in possession.

A Washington despatch to the Cincinnati GAZETTE, says: "An attempt has been made by certain parties to induce Louis Weichman to refrain from testifying against Surratt. Scurrilous efforts are expected to prevent either the witness or the one who exposed Surratt in Europe, from telling all they know in this matter. However, he has already transpired to warrant the belief that it is more than probable to testify truthfully, the whole mystery of the assassination will be unfolded."

A Steamer Burned and Twenty Lives Lost.

GETTYSBURG, Dec. 27.—The Steamer Twelve miles above Baton Rouge. Twenty lives were lost. Officers saved. Her cargo, consisting of 2,000 bales of cotton, was lost.

The Orphans.

Among the many pleasing incidents connected with Christmas was the Dinner for the Soldier's Orphans, gotten up at the Hotel under the benevolent ladies of the Borough on that day. It was truly a feast of "fat things," and the little ones enjoyed it very much. The contributions from the country were very limited, only a few having responded to the appeal made through the papers a few weeks ago.

The Pennsylvania Legislature will meet on Tuesday next, the first day of the New Year. As the Republicans predominate largely in both branches, the work of organization will be promptly done. It seems to be settled that Hon. Louis W. Hall will be re-elected Speaker of the Senate, a position he has already filled with credit, and that Col. M. S. Quay will be called to preside over the House. Messrs. Hamersly and Benedict, two most efficient and faithful officers, will be chosen Clerks—the first of the Senate and the last of the House. On the second Tuesday Hon. W. H. Keable will be re-elected State Treasurer—a just compliment to his successful management of our finances—and on the third Tuesday Gov. Geary will be inaugurated, and a United States Senator will be elected.

Governor Geary, in a letter to the Company now owning the Gettysburg mineral spring, speaks as follows in approval of the establishment of a popular watering place on the battle field: "I fully approve of the design of securing this sacred spot to the control of those who now thank God for the results of that mighty struggle, and to keep it from those who mourn for the issue of the battle which destroyed the rebellion. The cradle of liberty is in the midst of the most loyal city in America; let the grave of treason be under the control of none other than patriots."

A Chapter of Crimes.

NEW YORK, December 26.—In Jersey City yesterday, the occupants of a whole boarding-house were arrested, seven in number, for stealing bedding from sleeping cars.

A son was arrested for stealing two hundred and forty dollars from his mother, and two men were arrested for stealing a twenty five thousand dollar check. A woman picked a detective's pocket; a child was scalded to death; an unknown woman was killed on the Central Railroad; a counterfeit of one dollar greenbacks, and a negro servant, were arrested for stealing his employer's diamonds, all in Jersey City.

INSPECTORS OF DISTILLERIES.—The removals of Inspectors of Distilleries of the Internal Revenue Bureau continue to be made, and a thorough and radical change of these officers will speedily be made in all cases where corrupt or incompetent officials have been appointed. A determined and persistent effort is being made to secure to the Treasury the tax upon spirits manufactured, of which it is estimated that over three fourths have heretofore escaped taxation, and this largely through the incompetency and corruption of the Distillery Inspectors.

CHICAGO, December 25.—A destructive fire occurred yesterday at Havana, Mass. county, Ill., destroying an entire block of eighteen stores. The principal sufferers are Langford & Krebaum, dry goods and clothing, and Clover & Horingbury, drugs and family groceries. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Collectors of Internal Revenue have been ordered to personally and thoroughly inspect every distillery in their district, and to summarily close up such as are not carried on in strict conformity to law. All inspectors who are suspected of collusion with parties seeking to evade the law are to be at once discharged.

An extensive robbery, similar to the celebrated Lord robbery at New York, took place about 1 o'clock on Thursday last, at the office of C. P. Bayard & Co., bankers, Philadelphia. It is estimated that over a quarter of a million dollars worth of Government securities and stocks were stolen. Up to the latest accounts none of the parties engaged in the robbery had been arrested.

The proprietors of the Parker House, the Revere House, and other of the leading hotels of Boston, were yesterday arrested for violating the Massachusetts liquor law, to which they plead guilty, and were sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs, and three months' imprisonment in the House of Correction. They appealed from the sentence.

The ship Shastone arrived at San Francisco on Saturday in charge of the whaling bark Harrison outside of Farallones, all hands being down with the scurvy, and riding unattended at the mercy of the storm. The owners of the Harrison claim twenty six thousand dollar salvage.

A married woman, whose husband had been absent ten years, waiting to dispose of some property, obtained, by aid of a Winona (Wisconsin) attorney, a divorce on the ground of desertion. On the day after the divorce was granted, the husband turned up in Winona and the two were remarried.

OFFENDED DIGNITY.—The Washington correspondent of the Memphis Bulletin tells the following: "While I was in Brown's, the other evening, Humphrey Marshall strode in, large as life and twice as natural. An Irish preter, probably one of his old men, saluted him: 'How are you, Colonel?' 'Don't call me Colonel; call me General,' was the reply, and the mighty man strode on."

Reported Indian Massacre.

FORT LARAMIE, December 26.—A terrible massacre, it is reported, occurred on the 22d near Fort Phil Kearney. Brevel (Colonel) Fetterman, Captain Brown and Lieutenant Grinnard, of the 18th Infantry, with sixty enlisted men of the 22d Cavalry and 18th Infantry, were surrounded by Indians and every officer and man killed.

On Friday evening last, as the train from Richmond, Virginia, reached Petersburg, a small boy jumped from the truck under one of the cars, covered with frozen mud from head to foot. An inquiry revealed that he had slipped under the train when it started from Richmond, and getting upon the rod to which the brakes are attached, had placed his arms through the truck, and in this position rode the whole distance.

"My friend has a great reverence for the 'tree,'" said a Baronet to a gentleman "So I perceive was the reply, for he always keeps at a respectable distance from it."

Judge Biogham, of Ohio, in a recent debate in the House of Representatives, held that removals from office for corrupt purposes was clearly an impeachable offense, and avowed his determination to arraign the President therefor, if it should be found that such removals had been made by him. The country wants no further proofs of this fact than the President's acts in regard to the removals, and if our friend, the Judge is not clear on this point, we would like him to commence his investigations in New Jersey. Out of 440 Assessors and Collectors of Internal Revenue, he has removed 215 of them for corrupt purposes, since he wept those bitter tears over the Philadelphia Convention. These corrupt purposes are matters of fact openly avowed by him and his entourage—his elevation to the Presidency in 1868, upon the principle of "My Policy," which is designed to undermine our Republican institutions and erect a monarchy on their ruins.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN PRINTER.

Alexander Hamilton Hays, a printer, well known throughout the United States, and especially so in New Orleans, died in that city several days ago. He was born in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, about the year 1806. Choosing the profession of printer, he was first employed in Philadelphia, but afterwards went to New Orleans to become foreman of the Meanyne newspaper. He left the office of the Meanyne to become one of the founders of the Delta. After that paper was established, the proprietors separated, and a portion of them with Mr. Hays, established the Crescent. The Crescent of to-day is the revival of that paper of which Mr. Hays was an original proprietor. He acted as foreman to both the Delta and the Crescent. In 1859 the Crescent was transferred to other owners, and Mr. Hays took up that wandering life which continued to his death. He went to California, and thence to Japan and China, and back again to California, which State he left on the breaking out of the war. He made his way overland to Texas, where he resided during the rebellion. A few weeks ago he was invited back to the Meanyne office by the proprietors, but he died the day after landing in New Orleans. He stood high in his profession, and was esteemed by all who knew him. The New Orleans Typographical Society paid appropriate homage to his remains.

Almost a Tragedy.

PHILADELPHIA, December 27.—About midnight last night, at the house of J. M. Fann, on Pine and Juniper streets, a young man named Patterson shot his sister who had been leading a life for some time past. A police officer was alarmed by cries of murder, and on entering the house he found the young man standing in the middle of the floor with a large horse pistol in his hand. On the floor lay bleeding and senseless a young woman about twenty years old. The officer raised her up and found that the load had taken effect in her head, arm and breast, inflicting a severe, yet not dangerous, wound. The prisoner resides at No 1502 Jefferson street, with his father and stepmother. His sister was a fine looking and rather handsome girl. He said that the day before yesterday he had gone to see her, and at tempted to reason her out of her wicked course of life, and told her that he would pay her board at any respectable boarding house, and to leave her course of living for her own sake and for his and her relatives. She refused, and said she preferred to live as she had been doing. He then went away, and yesterday morning he borrowed the horse pistol and, going to the house where she was stopping last night, he again begged of her to leave the house. He then said he would rather see her dead than see her as she was, and fired full at her, intending to take her life. The prisoner is a quiet inoffensive man, and deeply feels his position.

DEATH OF GEN. CURTIS.—The Secretary of the Interior has received a dispatch announcing the death, by apoplexy, at Concord, Bluffs, Ark., of Major Gen. Samuel R. Curtis, one of the commissioners on the part of the government to inspect the finished section of the Union Pacific Railroad. Gen. Curtis was a graduate of West Point of the class of 1834, and served with distinction as colonel of the Ohio volunteers in the Mexican war, and was elected to the thirty fifth Congress from Iowa. He remained in Congress until appointed a brigadier of volunteers at the beginning of the war.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE.—On the 3d instant Howard Tillinghast, master machinist of the car shop at Youngstown, Ohio, received by express a small box shipped from Cleveland. Not expecting anything of the kind, he was at once suspicious of its contents, and, instead of drawing the lid, prized open one of the lower corners. A lot of gunpowder fell out. The box was then thoroughly soaked and opened in the side. It contained half pound of gunpowder and a row of upright matches so arranged as to explode the powder when the lid was drawn. The murderous contrivance was traced to one of the workmen under Tillinghast. Last month the latter discharged an employee and the infernal machine, it is supposed, was intended to avenge that act.

On Friday evening last, as the train from Richmond, Virginia, reached Petersburg, a small boy jumped from the truck under one of the cars, covered with frozen mud from head to foot. An inquiry revealed that he had slipped under the train when it started from Richmond, and getting upon the rod to which the brakes are attached, had placed his arms through the truck, and in this position rode the whole distance.

"My friend has a great reverence for the 'tree,'" said a Baronet to a gentleman "So I perceive was the reply, for he always keeps at a respectable distance from it."

Public Meeting.

Citizens of Adams county interested in the passage of an act for the relief of those whose property was destroyed or taken by the armies during the Rebel invasion, are requested to meet at the Court house, in Gettysburg, on New Year's day, at one o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of making arrangements to urge their claims upon the Legislature.

Great Fire in Vicksburg.

SEVERAL ONE HUNDRED HOUSES BURNED AND TWENTY LIVES LOST.

Vicksburg, Miss, Dec. 24.—A great fire broke out in Morris' Block, at the corner of Clay and Front Levee, at 8 p. m. last night, destroying the entire block of thirty houses, thence to the block bounded by Levee, Clay, Mulberry and Crawford streets. The entire block of thirty-three houses was destroyed. Thence east of Mulberry, between Crawford and Day streets, to Washington, destroying thirteen houses; thence to the corner of Washington and Crawford streets, destroying four three story buildings. It then spread to the corner of Mulberry and Crawford streets, destroying ten houses; in all nearly one hundred buildings, of which thirty eight were large brick stores.

Two white children and four negroes perished in the flames, and six negroes were killed accidentally. One hundred families are homeless. The fire resulted from carelessness in Meyer's bar room. The buildings and streets are crowded with debris and goods. Great credit is due to Generals Dudley and Wood and their men for superhuman efforts to subdue the flames and prevent pillage.

Five buildings were blown up to arrest the progress of the flames. The theatre caught fire, but the city bank and telegraph office escaped. The former is badly damaged. The total loss is estimated at $2,000,000, about one fourth of which is insured.

Singular and Dreadful Death.

The Galveston (Ohio) Journal says: Mrs. Mitchell, an old lady aged 61, came to her death in a terrible manner last Saturday in this city. We learn that Mr. Autenbach Cole, while passing, was called in by Mrs. Gibson, the daughter of the deceased, and was asked if they could not obtain some support from the town, as they were in destitute circumstances. While talking, the old lady entered the room, in a very bad humor, and making some remark attacked her daughter. The latter, to escape her, withdrew to the back room. Mr. Cole started to leave, but being called back found the mother in a towering passion, and fighting the daughter, having torn her dress badly. She was taken off, when, after standing a few seconds, she suddenly reeled and would have fallen had she not been caught. She was laid upon the bed, when, after two or three gasps, she expired. It seems as if the terrible passion with which she was transported was the direct cause of her death.

THE FENIAN TRIALS IN CANADA.—In the Fenian trials at Sweet-Bridge, Canada, on Thursday, Michael Crowley was found guilty, but sentence was postponed on motion of his counsel, who claims an arrest of judgment on the ground that the jury should have been discharged without rendering a verdict, as they reported at one time that they could not agree. (Glean, Morrill, Carroll, McDonald and Howard were all discharged, and there remains but one of the lot, Crawford, yet untried.)

Senator Roberts, of Texas, paints a horrible picture of affairs in that State. He says that twenty-seven hundred freedmen have been murdered within a year, and the persecution of the unfortunate blacks is so fearful that they are praying for a restoration of slavery as a protection against the murderous hate of the reconstructed white rebels. Every drop of blood shed in this manner, and every freedman thus ruthlessly murdered may be justly charged to Andrew Johnson and his Northern Democratic backers. The President of the United States may fairly be charged as being in league with the whipped traitors who are now denigrating the black inhabitants of the South. The picture is indeed too horrible to contemplate.

Horrible Case of Lynch Law in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minnesota, December 28. We learn here of a terrible tragedy at New Ulm. On Christmas day two men, named Campbell and Liscomb, had come in from a trapping expedition and, during an altercation in a saloon, one of them stabbed a resident of New Ulm, named John Spinner, severing a main artery, and causing his death.

The sheriff arrested Liscomb and Campbell, and while on their way to jail had a fight, they were set upon by a mob, beaten with stones and sticks of cord wood, and finally taken from the sheriff and hanged. Even whilst hanging the mobvent and looted their bodies in a shocking manner. Their bodies were still hanging, and frozen stiff next morning. Campbell and Liscomb served in Company F, 21 Minnesota regiment, and were men of good character and respectably connected.

The Lawyer in the School Room.

THIS remarkable little book, by M. McN. Walsh, A. M., L. L. D. (a New York lawyer), is full of useful and reliable information for everybody, but especially for teachers, school officers, parents, ministers, editors and members of the legal profession. The first chapter, "Of Schools and Governments," is a succinct explanation of the different plans adopted by governments, ancient and modern, for the diffusion of knowledge among the people. This chapter, in some respects, is exceedingly suggestive, and not unworthy the attention of our most intelligent and experienced statesmen. It is not imaginative or speculative, but a plain, matter-of-fact statement, and, in spite of its plainness, has to a mind capable of appreciating the subject, all the charm of romance. This chapter alone is worth many times the price of the book.

"The Lawyer in the School Room," is sent by mail to any part of the United States for $1.00. Address the author, M. McN. WALSH, No. 65 Nassau Street, New York. The trade supplied on usual terms.

Pennsylvania College.

THE Winter Session of this Institution, and also of the Preparatory Department, will commence on Thursday, January 10th, 1867. For particulars address

PRESIDENT OF PENN'A COLLEGE, Gettysburg, Dec. 29.

LAST NOTICE FOR THE PRESENT.

Our accounts for newspaper, advertising, &c., have been neglected for some time: and we feel now, as "the powers that be" have removed us from office, that we are much in need of money to carry on our business and provide for our family. We have one or two heavy payments to make, and we ask those indebted to us either for newspaper or advertising, to "give us a lift" promptly, and we shall be much obliged to them. We would not ask it, but necessity prompts us. Those who receive their papers by mail, will please remit by the same channel, and the sooner the better.

POSTSCRIPT.

"We have had the above notice in for some weeks. It has had some effect. We thankfully acknowledge the receipt of their dues from a considerable number of our ever kind and prompt patrons—for which we kindly remember them. But we regret to say, that a very large number of our subscribers, and who are largely indebted too, have made no response to our call. We again appeal to their sense of justice and propriety, and ask them the simple question whether a paper can be furnished to them for several years without any compensation therefor? It is impossible for us to do it—and we cannot see that a man in any business can get along in this way without 'getting behind.' We therefore, once more, ask those indebted to us (and we ask it earnestly), that they promptly remit to us what is so justly our due for subscriptions, advertising, and job work. This is a fair and equitable demand; and we hope it will be met at once in the same spirit."
